NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly, guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to The Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

Mrs. H. J. Kampschroer, 429 North Ninth street, was the winner of last week's "Guess Who's Here" contest, the subject of the sketch being A. A. Schroeder.

GUESS WHO'S HERE

Some writer for magazines, attempting to explain the exuberant, militant, multifarious, people xing, complex and contradictory career of "T. R." likened him to a locomotive engine the stupendous and superfluous power of which impelled him constantly onward. It wasn't a good figure, for had Hon. Roosevelt been a locomotive engine he would have been wrecked long ago. However, the simile fits the man "who's here" today at least as aptly as it does our Teddy, the only one that would fit him better being "T. R." himself. Now he wouldn't like that, for he's a democrat, and don't you forget it. But just the same, he's like the Sage of Oyster Bay in that he's in the van, on one side or the other, of every controversy that arises to perplex La Crosse. He's a peach if he's with you (which means that he's right), and he's the devil and all if he's agin' you (which means that he's wrong). No telling in advance which side he'll be on, but he'll be on one side or the other, and you may lay to that. You may have said of him, as some have said of Edmund Burke, that he "selects his position like a simpleton and defends it like a philosopher," but that depends on whether you happen at that particular moment to be on the same side he's on. Water, police, finance, streets and alleys, public health—wherever you are, he's been for you on one and agin' you on another—"he loves me, he loves me not;" you love him, you love him not. He's been chairman of pretty much everything democratic; he's been a candidate for most everything political. He's worked hard, compelling success. Let a mine explode, he throws himself into the breach; let a college be burned, he accepts it; let a gavel sound, he's on his feet with a speech. Were the heavens to fall he would spring with confidence to catch and balance them on his palm. We fight him today, we are among his allies tomorrow. He makes us mad in the morning and glad in the afternoon. Always he stirs us up, always he prods us. It is the unharmed power, the abnormal energy, the sleepless soul of a Roosevelt. May you have a dollar if you "Guess Who's Here?" Yes, you May, honey.

"SHOULD AULD ACQUAINTANCE BE FORGOT"

To become so proficient in a pastime for idle moments as to have it grow to the proportions of a successful life work is the experience of Miss Alice Austin, one time superintendent of drawing in the La Crosse public schools, and now one of the best known art photographers of the country. Her steady rise to pre-eminence in her art was brought home to local friends recently by the publication of a number of her pictures of child life as illustrations for an article on the American child in the Outlook.

CYCLONES DESTROY KANSAS TOWNS

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—Four Kansas towns were reported destroyed by cyclones in dispatches received today at the general offices of the Missouri Pacific railroad here. The towns in her art were brought home to local friends recently by the publication of a number of her pictures of child life as illustrations for an article on the American child in the Outlook.

DEPOT WORKERS STRIKE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4.—All workmen on the $15,000,000 union depot being erected here, walked out today at the order of the Building Trades council. Between 500 and 600 men are involved in the strike.

daughter of Horace E. Austin, war governor of Minnesota, became interested in photography, which was then, as a recreation, in its infancy. Here was one of the first amateur-owned cameras in the city. From the first she applied the principles and experience she learned from her art to the work, and soon her friends were urging her to devote all her time to it. Soon after she left La Crosse, and went abroad to study. Upon her return she studied a short time in Pratt Institute, New York, and then accepted the position of superintendent of drawing in the Brooklyn public schools.

A few years she held this position, all the time improving her photography, and finally she gave up her work and established a studio in Boston to devote herself to photography exclusively. At this time she became a disciple of Gertrude Kasebier, the pioneer in this line of work in the country. Her business has steadily grown, until at the present time she is a welcome contributor to salons in Chicago and all the eastern cities, and her work has a recognized standing in the world of art. She specializes on portraiture, and has a large clientele among the discriminating people of Boston. She also does a little landscape photography for her own pleasure, for which purpose she has a seaside studio during the summer. For several years she has had her summer studio at Gloucester, and this year she has planned a studio at Nantucket.

Yarns of The Town

Ever lunch down at Charley Olsen's, where the lights of "Ye Old Style Inn" illuminate the murky surroundings of "Wall Street?"

If you haven't, you've missed several things, among them some perfectly good "cats" and Charley Olsen. Charley hears by the naked eye, if he sees your order, he gets it, but if he doesn't you're lost, for your words beat upon his ear drums in vain.

"Bring me some coffee, Charley," you say, and Charley says, "Yes, uh-huh," and returns with apple pie and cheese.

"Nice day," you say, to which Charley answers, "We're all out." If you require water, he informs you that it will be cooler tomorrow. He's deaf to your entreaties, and you may not get what you order, but no matter. Whatever he hands you is fodder for the gods.

It was 2 a. m. Holy Cow's telephone bell rang, and the manufacturer of soft-spots-to-light-on arose grumbling, at least. It was a long distance, and the Exalted One waited in disgust for the connection.

"Say, Bill, this is Phil," finally came over the wire.

"Where are you?" said Holy Cow, sweetly, contracting his left extensor and straining his wrath.

"Detroit, Mich."

"That just saves your life," cooed Billy, between his teeth. "A mile nearer and it would be roses and resolutions for you. What in the name of the sacred bug house do you want?"

"Oh, nothin'! Jack and Ted are here. We met up and lubricated a line of conversation. Then someone said wonder how you are, so I thought I'd see."

"Detroit," said Holy Cow, a glimpse of retribution penetrating his drowsy dome. He ransacked his memory for toll rates. Then, "This bunch of bull has already cost you $13.75," he sweetly informed his friend.

"S'alright," said the petrified Phil, consolingly. "Listen, Bill! Cheapest thing we done tonight!"

M'CONNELL AND MAHONEY TO RUN FOR ASSEMBLY

Two Announcements of First District Candidacies Made Contemporaneously in Two Cities Today.

M'CONNELL OUT FOR SPEAKER

Madison Dispatch Says He Will Enter Contest with Good Chance to Win

MAHONEY STATES PLATFORM

Would Repeal Income Tax, Non-partisan Elections and Insurance Laws, Says Alderman

MADISON, Wis., May 4.—(Special).—Friends of Assemblyman John M'Connell of La Crosse, announced today that he would be a candidate for reelection to the assembly. They also stated he will undoubtedly announce his candidacy for speaker of the house within a short time. M'Connell is chairman of the assembly judiciary committee and has served two terms in the legislature. M'Connell was a close second for the speakership two years ago, and with the announcement that Charley Ingram, now speaker, who will seek the congressional nomination in his district, will not be a candidate the political posters declare M'Connell's election to the speakership is a practical certainty.

P. W. Mahoney announced his candidacy today as assemblyman from the first assembly district of La Crosse county. According to his announcement he will run on the democratic platform with certain specified planks which include the repeal of the income tax law, the repeal of the so-called "Mobile" insurance law and the repeal of the non-partisan election law.

The income tax law is a progressive republican measure passed at the last session of the legislature and Mr. Mahoney will base his plea for votes on the alleged dissatisfaction among the voters with its intricacies. The "Mobile Bill" is the rock which has threatened to wreck the ship of the Modern Woodmen of America because of its enforcement of higher rates of insurance in fraternal insurance orders. The non-partisan election law was passed yesterday by the assembly and concurred in by the senate last night. It was introduced through a combination of republicans and democrats at Milwaukee but when passed by the legislature was made to apply to all the cities in the state.

In a statement of his platform which will appear later, Mr. Mahoney will also include several other democratic principles and issues.

Mr. Mahoney has been prominent in politics in La Crosse county for several years serving as democratic county chairman, city chairman, city attorney and at present as member of the common council. It is probable that he will have the present incumbent, John E. M'Connell as his opponent. While Mr. M'Connell has not announced his candidacy for reelection it is expected that he will do so in a short time. Assemblyman M'Connell was elected over his opponent, B. F. Keeler, by a majority of 312 at the last election. Mr. Mahoney was defeated in the same election by a majority of 870 when he ran against John J. Esch for congress.

LA CROSSE WINS IN PRELIMINARY

Guy Jolivet won first place and Russell Webb won second honors in the high school league oratorical contest which was held at Viroqua last evening. Both Jolivet and Webb represented the La Crosse high school and the locals thus won the contest. Glen H. Malik of La Crosse also competed in the contest. By winning first place in the league oratorical contest, in which La Crosse, Sparta and Viroqua took part Jolivet qualified to compete in the district oratorical contest which will be held at the normal school this month. In this contest representatives from the high schools in this section of the state are entered and the winners are eligible for the state contest which is held some time after that.

The league declamatory contest for the girls was held at Sparta last evening. Elsie Hallik and Ethel Mabe representing the local high school, Sparta won the first two places in that contest. Representatives from La Crosse, Sparta and Viroqua were entered in the contest.

HASTINGS BILL FAILS IN SENATE

New Water Power Bills Is Killed in Upper House of the Legislature Today

DOES NOT MEAN THE END

Committee of Experts to Be Named to Frame Satisfactory Bill for Next Session

MADISON, Wis., May 4.—After several hours of debate, the senate this afternoon defeated the water power bill. The vote came on the question of adopting a new bill by Senator Hastings as a substitute for the administration measure. The Hastings bill, which was drastic than the original bill, was rejected by a vote of 14 to 12.

The defeat of the new Hastings law does not mark the end of attempts at water power legislation in Wisconsin, but if present plans carry, means that a committee of experts will be named to deal with the complex questions involved, in an effort to frame a satisfactory bill for presentation to the next regular session of the legislature.

One of the problems that has arisen in relation to this law is based on the claim that the law providing indeterminate franchises for manufacturers of electrical current operates to deprive the public of the benefits of cheaper water power electrical plants. Under this law the established steam plant is protected from competition, even though just outside the city there has been developed a water power that can manufacture at a much lower rate. Madison and La Crosse are cited as examples of cities near which water power plants exist, but whose citizens cannot benefit by the fact because the water power people cannot obtain franchises.

STORM IN NORTHWEST

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 4.—The second severe storm in twenty-four hours swept the northwest last night accompanied by a spectacular electrical disturbance which killed one man and put telegraph, telephone and power communication out of commission in all parts of Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Canada. Farmers, it is estimated, have been benefitted thousands of dollars.

TOWN IS UNDER WATER 25 FEET

Bayou Sara, La., Total Loss when 300 Foot Gap Opens in Levee and Overwhelms Town

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 4.—Great gangs of workmen are today battling with the waters of the Mississippi to prevent the flooding of Baton Rouge, the capital of Louisiana. With the town of Bayou Sara, and twenty miles north of Baton Rouge practically swept away and the levees about the capital threatening to go out at any minute, the situation in this state today was serious.

The people of Melville have fled from their homes and even portions of New Orleans itself are threatened. The water is nearly a foot higher than at any time in the history of the city.

At Bayou Sara today the streets are under 25 feet of water. When the waters rushed in late yesterday houses were toppled from their foundations. A great sheet of water leaping through a gap in the levee 360 feet wide, swept everything before it. The smaller buildings were dashed against the more substantial structures and the debris carried on by the flood. There was scant warning of the break in the levee, and panic reigned for a time.

STODDARD HOTEL SOLD TO BAKER

Sixteen Years Ago a Hotel Clerk, Now Owner of Best Hotels in the Northwest

CLERKED IN CAMERON HOUSE

When Fred B. Smith Became Owner of Stoddard He Took Baker Along

From clerk in a small hotel to the ownership of one of the largest hotels in the state of Wisconsin in sixteen years is the record of Calvin V. Baker, who today became sole owner of The Stoddard, one of the best known hostleries in the northwest. The deal whereby Mrs. Fred M. Smith and her brother, Frank B. Root, partners in the ownership of the big institution, sold the entire property to Mr. Baker, was completed at noon today. The consideration involved more than $200,000.

Mr. Baker has been a resident of La Crosse for sixteen years and has been business manager of The Stoddard for the past eight years. He came from Pennsylvania and his first position in La Crosse was clerk in the Cameron house. He was employed in this hotel by Fred B. Smith, who afterwards became the owner of the Stoddard. His strict attention to business and evident ambition impressed Mr. Smith so favorably that when he took over the Stoddard property he took Mr. Baker with him, making him manager. He has made an enviable record as a hotel manager.

The Stoddard hotel was built eight years ago by the Northern Hotel company which was formed by ten La Crosse capitalists. It is a five story brick and stone structure, containing 125 rooms. Among its appointments are two dining rooms, a huge kitchen, bar room, billiard parlors, barber shop, sample rooms and various other apartments. The building is considered one of the ornaments of the city and as a hotel has always enjoyed a large patronage.

Mr. Root, who bought a half interest in the hotel last January, will go back to his work on the railroad. He is a conductor on the Southern Minnesota division of the Milwaukee road, and will re-enter the service immediately. Mrs. Smith will leave the first part of next week for her summer home at Lake Okoboji, Ia. Whether she will return to La Crosse or not has not been decided at this date.

Policy the Same

Speaking about the transfer of the property today, Mr. Baker said: "The patrons of The Stoddard are well acquainted with its business policy. There will be no change in this policy for several months at least, if at all. I have enjoyed the friendship of the people of La Crosse for many years and wish to express my appreciation for their help. I shall do everything in my power to continue the prosperity of the city and this institution."

Mr. Baker was an instructor in a school in the east before he came to La Crosse. He is a graduate of the Excelsior normal school of Mahaffey, Penn., and holds a diploma from the business department of the Northern Indiana State normal school at Valparaiso, Ind. He is numbered among the rising business men of the city.

WANTS ARCHBOLD AFFAIR A SECRET

In Submitting Papers in Case Against Judge of Commerce Court, Taft Asks Secrecy

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Declaring it was not "compatible with the public interest" to make the information public, and suggesting that the matter be sifted out by the judiciary committee, President Taft today transmitted to the house a mass of papers dealing with the charges against Judge Robert W. Archbold of the United States commerce court.

The charges grew out of attempts by certain progressives to force Archbold's impeachment on the basis of his alleged business deals with a railroad. The matter was investigated by the department of justice. In his message Taft said that interstate commerce commissioner Meyer first brought the charges to his attention, and that in February he had ordered the attorney general to investigate, "and should the charges be established sufficiently to justify proceedings on them, bring the matter before the judiciary committee."

NOTED FEUDIST SHOT

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 4.—Ed Callahan, the most noted feudist in the Kentucky mountains and charged with being the instigator of many murders, was assassinated from ambush today. Callahan was shot down as he was standing on the steps of his store at Crockettville, Breathitt county.

OGDEN TO LEAVE THE LA CROSSE Y

Resigns Position as Director in Boys' Department to Accept Position in Wausau

SECRETARY OF Y. M. C. A.

Has Many Friends in This City; Succeeded by Clifford R. Bearmore

Carl F. Ogden, for three years boys' work director in the La Crosse Young Men's Christian association, today accepted a call as general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Wausau. Mr. Ogden will take charge of his new position August 1. This will give him time to complete his year's work here including the annual encampment which will be held in June. Clifford R. Bearmore of Belleville, Wis., has accepted the call to fill the position made vacant by Mr. Ogden's resignation.

Mr. Ogden has been a faithful worker in the local institution ever since he took charge three years ago and has built up an enviable reputation and a huge list of friends. He came here from Lake Geneva, where he had a year's experience in Y. M. C. A. work. Mr. Ogden is especially popular among the boys in his field of work. He has had charge of more than 250 boys each year since his arrival. The Wausau Y. M. C. A., where Mr. Ogden will take up his new duties, is one of the most widespread associations in the state. They have a fine new building, beautifully equipped and a large membership.

Adapted to New Work

Mr. Ogden's new position is one of considerable advancement over that he holds at present and he will receive a substantial increase in salary. In the belief of the officers of the La Crosse Y. M. C. A. he is especially adapted to the work that will be required of him in Wausau. Speaking of Mr. Ogden's advancement today A. C. Gran, general secretary of the local organization, said: "Mr. Ogden has been an efficient man in the work in La Crosse and he has accomplished much for his boys. He is a conscientious worker and is sure to meet with success in his new position. I shall miss his co-operation in this field greatly. Nevertheless we rejoice in his advancement."

Bearmore is Musician

Mr. Bearmore will arrive in La Crosse to take charge of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. September 1. He has the reputation of an able man. He is an accomplished musician, having much experience as leader of bands and orchestras. He is also a vocalist of ability. Mr. Bearmore has won laurels in the athletic field, being especially efficient as a swimmer. He is married and has two children.

BISHOPS CENTER OF CHURCH EYES

Interest in Methodist Conference Centers About Number of Bishops to Be Chosen

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 4.—Detail work in preparation for the routine work of the denomination was the order of today with the Methodist General conference.

Much interest centers about the Episcopal committee since the bishops failed to suggest the number of bishops needed to reinforce the work of the church. The committee will make its report in a few days. It is practically certain that the Episcopal committee will recommend the retirement or superannuation of several of the college of bishops. Bishop W. H. Warren, though hale and hearty, is 81, yet it is considered quite a risk to continue his effective relation considering his advanced age. Bishop Moore is 76 and Bishop Smith only a year behind.

A readjustment of the benevolences of the church will occupy considerable time and legislation will be enacted which will not allow all outside causes to be exploited in the churches.

The negro problem is being given more attention than at any previous general conference. It will receive a degree of consideration commensurate with its importance, but this conference will hardly elect a colored man to the Episcopacy.

Wade Rogers, former dean of Northwestern university law school, offered the first definite plan to the Methodist general conference today for superannuating bishops. The plan provides that when a bishop reaches the age of 70 he be relieved from traveling through the connection at large and at the age of 75 he be relieved from presiding at annual conferences and all other functions of church work.

ITALY OCCUPIES RHODES

ROME, May 4.—Minister of War Spingard announced today that the Italian forces have occupied the land of Rhodes, off the coast of Turkey.

NEW ELECTION BILL PASSES IN SENATE EASILY

None but Socialists Oppose Non-partisan Election Law Applying to All Cities

COUNTY BILL IS UP TODAY

Ingram Will Present a Substitute for Jefferson Club Non-partisan Bill

$106,000 FOR BLACK RIVER

After Conference Between Senate and Assembly the Amount of Help Is Finally Fixed

MADISON, Wis., May 4.—(Special).—At the close of a spectacular debate the senate last night passed the non-partisan bill as applied to all the cities of the state. There was no roll call, it being evident at the close of the discussion that all except the socialists were in favor of the measure. An unimportant amendment was added, which necessitated its re-passage by the assembly. The bill went immediately back to the assembly, and the amendment was occurred in without debate. The bill is now ready for the signature of the governor.

The non-partisan county bill or so-called Jefferson club measure, was defeated in the assembly yesterday afternoon, but resuscitated again for Speaker Ingram to present a substitute, which will come up for consideration Saturday. The substitute provides for the removal of the party circle and the grouping of all of the candidates for one office together with their party designation after the name. This will make it impossible to vote a "straight ticket." The voter will have to mark his selection after the name of some candidate for every office.

Gaylord Leads Fight

In the senate the attack on the non-partisan city bill was led by Senator Gaylord. Early in the debate Gaylord offered an amendment to provide for the grouping of candidates upon petition. This amendment was rejected by a vote of 25 to 3. Senators Gaylord, Zophy and Blaine voting for it. Then followed a long speech by Blaine in which he deplored the lax methods used in drafting the measure. He thought that many of the sections were ambiguous. His speech was interrupted by a motion for a recess for supper and Blaine again resumed the discussion at 8 o'clock. He said he was for the measure but every section should be clear and explicit. Senator Owen was also of the opinion that the measure was rather indefinite in some of its sections. Senators Kleczka and Bodenstab claimed that the measure had been drafted by General Winkler, one of the ablest lawyers in the state, and they believed it was constitutional.

Pleads for Socialists

The previous question was ordered by a strong vote and Senator Gaylord now made his final appeal.

POLITICS VS.
STATESMANSHIP

While those men at the state capitol who are leaders of modern thought and action are congratulating the legislature upon the patriotism of its action in having put forth a law providing our cities with the machinery for non-partisan elections, there seems to be here in La Crosse a tendency to criticize adversely the commendable part taken in this work by Hon. E. J. Kneen, of Bangor. The difference is this: Mr. Kneen's work was statesmanship; the criticism is political. Particularly it is unfortunate that it comes from his own partisans. However, that the democrats in the assembly united almost unanimously under Mr. Kneen's leadership, and that only two republicans voted against the measure, is an endorsement of the plan which in itself furnishes ample defense of the Bangor assemblyman. Back of that, as Mr. Kneen says, is the bulwark of a sound principle the supporters of which will not go unthanked when our cities begin to reap the benefit of improved governmental conditions.

On the republican side Lieut. Gov. Morris and Hon. J. E. McConnell played a part as conspicuous as that of Mr. Kneen on the democratic side. La Follette republicans, like a Wisconsin democrat, all imbued with broad convictions as to the true obligations of government, could have taken no other position.

LA CROSSE TO LOSE AN ABLE WORKER

Whiles our first sentiment regarding Mr. Carl Ogden's prospective departure from our Y. M. C. A. is a feeling of loss, it would be ungenerous not to rise above our regrets and hasten to congratulate Wausau and its new general secretary upon their mutual good fortune.

In his capacity of superintendent of the Boys' Work department of the local Y. M. C. A. Mr. Ogden has impressed himself upon this community as an unusually earnest and competent executive, at the same time endearing himself to all who know him because of the manly and lovable traits with which he is endowed. Perhaps his most striking characteristic is a relentless energy that, coupled with boundless enthusiasm and great endurance, has enabled him to prosecute his duties with telling effect. We shall all miss him, the 250 boys he works with each year most of all. Wausau is indeed fortunate.

TRIBUNE'S SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

In this issue The Tribune begins publication of Rev. T. S. Linscott's "Suggestive Question Helps" to one Sunday school lesson. They are now recognized by all the leading papers, such as the Chicago Record-Herald and Minneapolis Tribune, as the most efficient Sunday school service available to newspapers. The questions are so worded as to raise to sectarian problems, and pastors in cities where they are employed endorse them as valuable to both teachers and pupils. That they will serve to promote interest in Sunday school work is the hope of the publishers, and to the end that they may prove of service we invite the co-operation of all Sunday school authorities. The lessons will appear each Saturday.

TO PROHIBIT

THE PARLOR MATCH

The campaign the fire prevention interests have been making against the incendiary match now promises to develop into the effective stage. A great deal of public sentiment has been worked up against the parlor match, with the thousands of distressing fatalities and millions of losses for which its flying heads are responsible. The match manufacturers have seen the rising tide of sentiment and are now ready to co-operate in enforcing reasonable restrictions to reduce the hazards of their product. Bills forbidding the use of parlor matches were introduced in several states this year. These were defeated as impracticable in some of their details, but in their place a new measure has been introduced which has been endorsed by the sponsors of the original legislation. The bill will not be opposed by the match manufacturers in general, although it materially increases their cost, since they recognize the justice of the charges made against the hazardous match.

The new measure positively prohibits the manufacture, storage, sale and distribution of white phosphorus single-dipped strike-anywhere matches of the type generally known as the "parlor" match. It also prohibits the use of all types of matches which will ignite when stepped upon or will shoot off burning particles, the measure describing the degree of tenacity the heads must maintain to prevent this feature which has been responsible for the bulk of the match fires. The bill, in addition to outlawing the parlor match, prevents the marketing of defective goods in boxes not plainly marked as such, which will put an end to the common practice of manufacturers of selling defective matches in job lots to the cheap retail trade. The bill also regulates the packing and storing of matches, together with the number of matches in a box and the number of boxes in a case, as well as the size and material of the packing case, in these regards complying with the regulations made by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Bureau for the Transportation of Explosives.

The agitation to prevent loss by fires has been conducted by the insurance companies of the United States for several months. They realize that if they can minimize or reduce the number of fires and the losses, they will be the gainers thereby. Their object is two-fold, selfish on one hand and as a benefit to the community on the other.

We feel constrained to say that if the insurance companies were more careful in the taking of risks, that many fires, the origin of which is now put down as "unknown," would be prevented. In the scramble for business, agents over-insure business stocks, household goods and other insurable property, and thereby hold out a standing invitation to the persons insured to fail to exercise the care against fire which he would otherwise show, providing his property were insured for only half its value, or not at all.

The Yellow Letter

A FASCINATING MYSTERY STORY.

BY WILLIAM JOHNSTON.

Copyright 1911—The Robbe-Merrill Co.

The eyes of everybody present began roving about the room, as if in answer to my question. The constable instituted a hasty search, in which I myself, the coroner and the jurors joined. I felt that if we could only find those pieces, the mystery might be solved. While the room was being ransacked I kept my eye on Cook. As I asked the question about the letters' color I noticed that he looked startled. I was amazed now to see him edging toward the door. I was tempted to demand that he be restrained and searched. I felt almost sure that if the pieces of the yellow letter were found anywhere it would be in his pocket. Yet second thought advised against such rash action. I had no positive proof that Cook was Crandall. Until I had, surely it would be unwise to accuse him. I remembered that there was no train by which he could leave the town until late in the afternoon, so there was little prospect that he could escape me.

"How did you know it was a yellow letter?" the coroner asked me suspiciously, pausing suddenly in his search.

It was an awkward question. I realized that my impetuosity had placed me in a predicament. I was by no means ready to tell him the whole story, and yet the fact that I knew or suspected the color of the letter that she was tearing up certainly indicated that I knew something about the woman.

"I didn't know it."

"Well, what'd you ask the question about it for?"

I was thinking quickly what I could say that would divert his thoughts. I noticed with annoyance that the eyes of every one in the room were on me and that they were curiously awaiting an answer. I assumed an air of mystery and drew the coroner to one side.

"I am perfectly willing to tell you everything," I said. "I am out here on another matter that is something of a mystery in which a yellow letter figures. The letter has disappeared. I never saw or heard of this old woman before, but when the witness mentioned that she was tearing up a letter a sudden notion came to me that it might be the one of which I was in search. A detective who is working on the case will be out here this evening and then I can tell you more about it."

I spoke the last sentence in a whisper so low that it reached only the coroner's ear. He pondered over my statement and then abruptly announced that the inquest was adjourned until nine o'clock the next day. I would have escaped him if I could, but I saw that he was determined to worm out everything I knew or suspected. I decided that activity would be the best remedy for his curiosity. Accordingly I invited the coroner and the constable to come up to my rooms where, without waiting for them to question me, I began firing questions hot-shot at them, suggesting things for them to do, simple things, that would have been the first thought of the police of New York or any other large city, but which they had not thought of. Had they telephoned a description of the woman to the Bridgeport police with her name to see if she could be identified as any one who was missing from that city? Had they examined her clothing to see if there was any marks on it that might identify her? Had they studied her writing on the register to see if it gave any indication of being assumed or disguised? Had they examined her pocketbook to see if it contained any clue to a motive? Had they considered whom she might have come to this town to see?

"That idea of calling up the Bridgeport police ain't such a bad one," said the coroner. "Suppose you do it now," he said, turning to the constable.

"I'd like to know who's going to pay for it if I do," the constable objected. "There ain't enough fees in this office for me to be spending my money that way."

"You go ahead and do it and I'll see that you get the money back."

"If you're going to pay it out of your own pocket I'll do it, but if you expect me to wait till you put it through as a lawful expense I ain't taking no chances."

Their petty wrangling over such a trifling amount exasperated me not a little.

"Here," said I, pulling a five-dollar bill from my pocket, "take this and pay for it and tell them to telephone you as soon as they can what they have found out. This ought to cover both the message and the answer, and if there is anything left get yourself some cigars with it."

The constable needed no second bidding. As soon as he had disappeared I turned to the coroner:

"Did you notice that man Cook at the inquest? Who is he?"

"I don't know who you mean," he replied. "The only Cook I know here in the town is Bob Cook, and he's laid up with a broken leg."

"Didn't you notice a tall, smooth-shaven fellow who stood right close beside where you were sitting? He listened closely to the testimony and the minute we began looking for the scraps of the letter, didn't you see him slip out of the room?"

"Come to think of it," said the coroner, "I believe I did notice him, but I can't say as I seen him going out. Maybe 'twas one of the guests of the hotel."

"I think he is, and I'm pretty sure he's registered in the hotel as Mr. Cook, too, but I'd like to know more about him."

"Let's go down and ask Mahlon. If there's anybody staying in his hotel he don't know about it's something unusual."

My Work—My Blessing

Let me but do my work from day to day,

In field or forest, at the desk or loom,

In roaring market-place or tranquil room.

Let me but find it in my heart to say,

When vagrant wishes beckon me astray,

"This is my work; my blessing, not my doom;

Of all who live, I am the one by whom

This work can best be done in the right way."

Then shall I see it not too great, nor small,

To suit my spirit and to prove my powers;

Then shall I cheerful greet the laboring hours,

And cheerful turn, when the long shadows fall

At eventide, to play and love and rest,

Because I know for me my work is best.

—Henry Van Dyke.

Viewed with Suspicion

Before he was well known, Wendell Phillips, the abolitionist, went to Charleston and put at a hotel. He had breakfast served in his room and was waited upon by a slave. Mr. Phillips seized the opportunity to present to the negro in a pathetic way that he regarded him as a man and brother. The negro, however, seemed more anxious about his breakfast than he was about his position in the social scale. Phillips became discouraged and told him to go away, saying that he could not bear to be waited on by a slave.

"You must excuse me, massa," said the negro. "I 'bliged to stay here, 'cause I'm 'sponsible for the silverware."—Indianapolis News.

Not to Be Caught

An old Scotsman was so very optimistic that he had but one consolatory remark for any friend who was in trouble: "It might hae been waur."

A friend who had suffered from this apparent lack of sympathy that he thought was his due resolved to get even, and called one evening on the old Scotsman, all prepared to do so.

"Geordie," he said, "I had an awful dream about you last night."

"Aye, man Sandie, and what was that?"

"Weel, Geordie, I dreamt ye were dead."

"Man, Man, Sandie, that was bad; but it might hae been waur."

"Aye, Geordie, but it wis waur. I dreamt ye were dead and had gone to the 'bad place.'"

"Losh me, Sandie! Me an elder in the kirk, dead an' gone to the 'bad place'? That wis fearsome, that wis awfu'; but—it might hae been waur."

"'Hoo," says Sandie, "could it be waur than that?"

"Weel, ye ken, it might hae been true!"—Tit-Bits.

Women Who Know Silver.

Rich women who are ever on the watch for antique bits of silver or pewter, says the New York Tribune, have taken to carrying small silver-mounted microscopes, so that the hallmarks can be examined with ease and the accuracy of the date be determined.

Dealers in antiques are very apt to talk glibly of George II. silver or of George III. and even of William and Mary, pieces of those of good Queen Anne, and this prattle is bound to make an impression with those who do not know, and can also fool the near-sighted customer. Hence the microscope and a little folded paper (not mentioned to the dealer), whereby the memory is refreshed.

McMINNVILLE LADY'S NARROW ESCAPE

All Women Should Read of Mrs. Williams' Harrowing Experience, and Profit Thereby

M'INNIVILLE, Tenn.—"I can truthfully say that Cardui has helped me most wonderfully," writes Mrs. George Williams, of this place.

"I was in a terrible fix, and I do believe I would have been dead by now, had it not been for your medicine."

I had an awful bad spell with my back, also other symptoms of womanly trouble, and I came near dying.

The doctors wanted to operate, but I had fully made up my mind to give Cardui a fair trial before resorting to an operation, and I am so thankful that I did, for I am so much better, since taking Cardui, the woman's tonic.

I have gained 12 pounds, enjoy my meals thoroughly, and don't have that tired feeling any more.

I can also rest good at night, am not always aching, and can take a long walk every day, and really enjoy it.

I shall never be without Cardui as long as I have a dollar, for I think it is the grandest medicine on earth for suffering women."

If you are a woman, and suffer from any of the ailments so common to your sex, we urge you to try Cardui, the woman's tonic.

It has helped a million others—why not you?

Your druggist sells it.

The school children of La Crosse have passed the first thousand dollar mark in the penny savings department, according to the report of Mrs. Robert B. Lowey, secretary.

This fulfills the hope and anticipation expressed in the special report of April 13.

During the month of April twenty-nine new accounts were opened, and a deposit of $409.86 was made. The deposit figures now stand at $1,302.13, a monument to the thoughtful, painstaking and industrious teachers, parents and pupils, who have believed ever since September, 1909, when the work was started, that it is worth while to save to much out of pennies.

Get off the hose

Copyright 1912 B. J. Palmer

What would be your opinion of a man who stood on a hose and then wondered why the water wouldn't flow from the nozzle?

What would you think of his intelligence if he insisted on tickling the nozzle to bring the water?

Which leads us to ask: Are you sure you're not standing on the hose? Are you sure that none of your vertebrae are slightly out of line and interfering with the flow of mental force—the source of life—from your brain to your stomach, heart, lungs, liver, kidneys or some other organ which is gradually losing strength because the misplaced vertebrae are pinching spinal nerves which carry the life-giving mental force to these organs?

This force, call it what you wish, originates in the mind, which has its seat in the brain. It is carried to the organs of the body by the spinal cord and nerves just as electricity is carried from the dynamo through the wires to the electric light or motor.

Decrease the diameter and circumference of the spinal nerves and some of the force is lost. Let the vertebrae be slightly out of line and the nerves are compressed and the flow obstructed. In 10,000

X-Ray photographs which we have made of the spines of living people 95% show misplaced vertebrae.

Perhaps your organs have not become weakened, they may be normal and your condition perfect, if so, you are one of one in a hundred. But aches and pains tell you everything is not just right. If that is so, it will pay you to talk to a Chiropactor.

He knows how to trace the effect unerringly back to the cause just as the electrician can trace the dim lights back to the over-heated loose fuse connection and by removing the cause clear the path for the life-giving current. What he will tell you may save you long years of misery. He will be glad to answer your questions and tell you these specific truths of Chiropactic. Be sure to see him.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Thirty-nine extra men were used in the seven games played in the two big leagues yesterday. Pittsburgh took the top honors, using eighteen men. The Giants were runners up with 16.

It was hitting day in all sections. Detroit grabbed seventeen and the two New York teams, Brooklyn and Chicago ended with groups of fifteen each.

In the weird day there were also a few thrilling finishes, the Highlanders pounding in ten in the last round and almost winning a hopelessly lost game.

About the only thing that prevented Mr. O'Day's terriers continuing on their merry runaway was the fact that they did not play yesterday.

Walter Johnson's string of scoreless rounds was checked yesterday by Boston slipping in one stingy run in the eighth. Up to that time Johnson had gone through three shutout games.

John Kling's determination to carry his come-back twirler, Hess, through the entire nine rounds cost the German boss his game with Brooklyn for the Dodgers certainly did wallow Mr. Hess at the finish.

Pitcher Jack Pfeister, after a few minutes back in the big league, has been sent to the Milwaukee club by the Cub team. He appears to quit as a pitcher when he gets into Chicago.

One hundred and nineteen runs were scored in seven major league games played yesterday.

SCHOOL CONCERT MUSICAL TREAT

Two Hundred and Forty Voices in Chorus, Accompanied by Thirty Piece Orchestra

MISS ANDERSON VIOLINIST

Audience Pleased by Skillful Handling of Difficult Numbers; Waltz Closes Program

To the strains of Strauss' beautiful waltz "Greeting to Spring" sung magnificently by trained chorus of two hundred and forty voices accompanied by an orchestra of thirty pieces, the second annual concert of the high school chorus and orchestra under the direction of Miss Martha Rollins, supervisor of music, was brought to a successful close. Too much can scarcely be said of the way in which Miss Rollins brought the young singers up to the grand climaxes, the well modulated tones of all the parts being handled as so many steps of a large pipe organ, so responsive were the attacks. The large audience was enraptured to such a degree that the last number had to be repeated. The applause was confined to no one number, however, and the entire program was well carried out.

A distinct feature of the evening was the violin work of Miss Vera Anderson, Miss Anderson played a group of three numbers and a pretty Norwegian melody as an encore. The young lady gets a beautiful tone from her instrument and her thorough musicianship was well shown in every number, especially in her rendition of Dvorak's dainty "Humoresque."

A male chorus sang with much good spirit "What Sounds so soft" from Cowen's "Rose Maiden." The orchestra performed in a very creditable manner and was applauded continuously for its splendid work.

"The Soldiers' Chorus" from "Faust," and "The Glory of the Lord" by Handel, showed the well trained singers to good advantage but the last Strauss number was the most popular with the audience and undoubtedly one of the best numbers ever put on in this city in a long time.

The program was as follows: "Light Cavalry" overture (Supple); by the orchestra; "Day Break" (Fanning) by chorus; "Salut d'Amour" (Edgar) orchestra; "What Sounds There so Softly" (Cowen) male chorus; "A Day in Venice" (Nevin) by orchestra; "Soldiers' Chorus" from "Faust" chorus; violin, "Humoresque" (Dvorak) "The Rosary" (Nevin); "Liebes Freud" (Kreiser) by Miss Vera Anderson; "The Glory of the Lord" (Handel) chorus; "Naila" intermezzo, orchestra; "Greetings to Spring" (Strauss) by chorus.

SEE INTERVENTION IN ARMY ORDER

California Regiment Ordered to Be Ready to Move to Mexico on Moment's Notice

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The sudden orders received last night by the Twelfth United States infantry at Monterey to be ready to move to Mexico on a moment's notice caused a feeling among army officers that the Mexican situation has taken another alarming change. Many believe these orders coupled with the recent order to the transport Buford to go to the west coast of Mexico "to take off Americans," means intervention in a short time, or at least a threatening patrol of the whole Mexican border.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Predicting abdication of President Madero and complete success of the Mexican revolutionists within four months, L. Gutierrez de Lara, Mexican author and noted agitator, is here to oppose American intervention. He is protesting against intervention to many congressmen.

"If the United States intervenes, every Mexican, federal and revolutionist will turn to a man against American invaders, and fight to the death," said De Lara today. "The crisis of the revolution, I expect, will be a battle within two weeks near Torreon. I came from there just a few days ago, after touring Mexico and personally conferring with General Orozco. The revolutionists have an army of twelve to fourteen thousand men, fairly well armed and with several field guns. The federals, under General Huerta can mass only about eight to ten thousand."

He said the socialist party was growing and in the last election in the city of Milwaukee where every effort was made by the democrats and republicans to get out a large vote, still the socialists polled 41 per cent of the votes cast. At times he was facetious in his remarks. He reviewed the achievements of the socialists giving the senate a kindergarten lesson in the principles championed by his party. He declared that many of the socialists' planks had been taken up by the republicans and democrats and adopted but that now these two old parties say they were about to be engulfed in a cataclysm and they were resorting to this "non-partisan measure."

"But this contest over the non-partisan measure only serves to make the issue clear," declared Gaylord. "Hereafter the fight will not be between the three parties. It will be upon the issue of anti-socialism against socialism. It will be up against socialism. We are ready to meet the issue."

And then in serious tones he announced: "We of the growing party salute you of the dying parties." For a few minutes the bill was laid aside to permit the offering of an amendment to correct the phraseology of one section. Upon taking the measure up again the amendment was adopted and the bill was then concurred in.

Before adjourning for the night the senate received several amendments to the waterpower measure, which was taken up this morning at nine o'clock. The senate passed 88, providing a penalty for building obstructions in navigable streams and concurred in 18a., making it unlawful to use dip nets in certain inland waters. A resolution commending the services of Judge William Rogers of Kewanee, recently deceased, for his services to the state was unanimously adopted.

Black River Falls will receive a flood fund of $106,000.

This amount was agreed upon last night by the conference committee appointed by the two houses. The compromise agreed upon left the appropriation of $71,000, as provided in bill No. 11a., as it was. This reimburses the relief committee for money expended in construction work and for filling in overflowed lands, so they will not be a menace to the community's health. The cut by the finance committee of the appropriation in No. 11a., of $65,000 to $35,000 was allowed to stand.

When the report was presented to the senate that house receded from its amendment to No. 11a., and adopted the report. The assembly concurred in the senate amendment to No. 10a., cutting down the appropriation from $65,000 to $35,000. The report of the committee was then adopted.

WILL GIVE $500 TO SICK READERS OF THE TRIBUNE

Indiana Scientist Who Originated the Now Famous
"Home Treatment" Offers Large Package
Free to Sick and Ailing

In order that every reader of The Tribune who needs treatment may have an opportunity to test this celebrated medicine, the now famous Indiana scientist has come to the front with an offer to give absolutely free a large proof package to five hundred readers of this paper to prove the wonderful claims which have been made for it. In making this offer the scientist said: "I know that there are many people who have been suffering for years with some chronic disease and many of them have spent large sums of money seeking a cure. I know that these people hesitate about investing money in medicine because they have despaired of ever getting well. Thousands have told me that story and many thousands of the same people have told me afterwards that my treatment had cured them after doctors and everything else had failed. I want to show these despairing people that all the newspaper talk about my treatment is absolutely true. I want to prove to a limited number—no matter what the disease, no matter how long they may have suffered, no matter how blue and discouraged—that my treatment really and actually does accomplish the wonderful results that have been reported."

People who suffer from Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, Stomach Trouble, Liver or Bowel Disorders, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Chronic Coughs, Weak Lungs, Lumbago, Piles, Urinary Disorders, Female Weaknesses of any kind, the weak, worn out, broken-down and despondent will be delighted at the effect of a few doses. This wonderful treatment creates a fine appetite and helps the digestive organs to carry on their functions as they should. It strengthens the kidneys, too, and drives rheumatism poisons from the blood as if by magic. That is why people who try it become so enthusiastic.

Any reader of The Tribune who will try this extraordinary medicine that has created so much excitement by its cures can obtain absolutely free a liberal treatment by simply filling in the coupon below or writing a letter describing their case in their own words, if they prefer, and mailing it today to James W. Kidd, Fort Wayne, Indiana. No money need be sent and no charge of any kind will be made.

As this offer is limited, you should write at once, in order to be sure to receive your free treatment.

CROWDS FLOCK TO HEAR H. PACKMAN

La Crosse Organist Arouses
Interest of Church Goers at Watertown, S. D.

In a recent publication of the Daily Public Opinion, Watertown, S. D., the following article on the services held at the Trinity church of that city in which Harry Packman, La Crosse, took a prominent part, appears:

"Never before in a secular endeavor has Trinity church been so taxed as it was last night to find seating capacity for the eager crowd anxious to hear the organ recital under the auspices of the church choir. Professor Harry Packman of La Crosse, Wis., was at his best and gave a treat to the music lovers of Watertown which has seldom before been offered.

"Many who came late were unable to find seats, and though extra chairs were provided, many could find only standing room.

"The program comprised various numbers from composers of world-wide fame, which gave Professor Packman a splendid opportunity to express various emotions. At one time, the audience would be carried along with an outburst of fiery enthusiasm; at another, soothed into resignation and peace by the sympathy and pathos suggested in the composition. At no time was Professor Packman anything but the sympathetic interpreter of composer to audience.

"Professor Packman fully realizes the power of the 'Hallelujah Chorus' to stir the hearts of a music-loving and worshipful congregation. In the final number which he rendered, the whole building reverberated with the inspiring notes of Handel's great masterpiece and was a fitting climax to a service of song and music which betokened praise and thankfulness to the Creator of the universe."

EXPRESS ORDER LOST ON TITANIC

La Crosse Company's Loss Made Good Within Four Days of the Disaster

To have lost an express money order for $500 when the liner Titanic sank off Newfoundland banks, and to have had the loss made good by the express company within four days after the disaster, was the unusual experience of the Bump Paper Fastener company of this city.

The money order was in payment for a shipment of paper fasteners to one of the large London dealers, and it was not even necessary to trace the letter, as the express company knew that it was on the boat.

The Bump Paper Fastener company, whose product is manufactured on contract by the National Guage & Register company, is fast becoming one of La Crosse's most important industries. Since Mr. Bump invented this ingenious office implement in 1909, its fame has spread over the world, and the company now has important connections in all civilized countries, enjoying a particularly large trade with England and the British possessions. Among its recent foreign shipments was a large one to Sydney, Australia, where the device is coming into general use.

Everyone in La Crosse is familiar with the paper fastener, which is manufactured in two styles known respectively as the "Hand Clip" and the "Stand Clip," the former being unattached and the latter a stationary adjunct of the office desk.

Illustrative of the extent to which the fastener is known is the following story:

Since Mr. Bump went into business there have been numerous efforts to manufacture the fasteners without warrant from the company, and at times these infringements have kept the inventor busy. Their failure is largely due to the fact that one particular portion of the fastener cannot be manufactured without the equipment which Mr. Bump alone possesses, the result being that portions of nearly every shipment by the piratical makers are returned as defective. This fact has served to keep the company informed as to the operations of the infringers, for naturally there have been mistakes by which defective fasteners sold by illegitimate makers have found their way back to the La Crosse company, thus identifying the fake concerns.

In one of these instances a clip made by a firm not entitled to manufacture them was mailed for return, and the erroneous address given was La Crosse, England. Notwithstanding this error the fastener reached La Crosse, Wis., in record time, and the incident resulted in the infringing firm being put out of business.

Sounded Like a Threat.

"I'm going to ride at the country," said a Frenchman, whose English was not very perfect, to a friend in town. "You should say ride in the country," remarked the friend. "Oh! yes—very good," responded the Frenchman, "and when I come back I will knock in your door."

One Principle at the Bottom.

The principle of human brotherhood has been the secret of the power of all the great leaders and of all great movements.

Every spring I receive many letters from girls seeking some reliable recipe for removing freckles. Last year I advised many to try mercurized wax. Such favorable results were reported that this season I have recommended nothing else for the purpose. The wax seems to possess unusual properties which completely absorb every freckle, with no harmful effect. The complexion improves wonderfully, becoming as soft as a rose petal, and as delicately tinted.

Get an ounce of mercurized wax at any druggist, spread a thin layer of it over the entire face every night for awhile, washing this off in this morning. For rough, red skin, sallowness, blackheads, pimples, and all cutaneous blemishes, this treatment is superior to any that has ever come under my observation.

Springtime also brings wrinkles to many sensitive skins that are much exposed to winds and changing temperatures. Pour a half pint witch hazel into a basin, then an ounce of powdered salolite, which quickly dissolves. Bathe the face in this; the effect on a wrinkled skin is remarkable.—Marie Demarest in Ladies' Favorite Magazine.

WORST STOMACH TROUBLE ENDED

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn and Dyspepsia five minutes after taking Diapepsin

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and Indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides, one single dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—sets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember, if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Will Not Use Word "Pauper."

The Norwich (England) board of guardians recently unanimously decided that in future the word "pauper" shall not be used in any of the board's records or minutes. Mr. Millington, a farmer, brought the matter forward. Many respectable persons, he said, required relief through no fault of their own, and the word was objectionable and cast undesired stigma upon recipients of relief and their children. He suggested that the word "poor" should be substituted.

Sleep in Church, but Don't Snore.

An English preacher has invented a cure for snoring in church. It's a little mental contrivance that the disturber of a parson's peace of mind places in a position on his lips and nostrils, and the Rev. A. Allen Barrett, vicar of Claygate, England, who evolved the idea, says any sleeping churchgoer thus decorated can't let loose a single snore to disturb other worshippers in their bully snooze every Sunday morning till it's time to get up from the pew for dinner.—New York Press.

Receiver Has Sanitary Ear Pad.

Sanitary attachments for the transmitters of telephones are numerous in this country, but France has gone one better in the matter of a sanitary pad for the receiving end of the telephone. The ordinary hard-rubber earpiece of the monophone type of instrument, which is much used in France, is removed and its place taken by a round pad formed of 250 leaves of sterilized paper. Every time the telephone is used one of the leaves is torn off. The purpose of the pad is, of course, to protect the ear from being soiled.—Popular Mechanics.

MERE MAN MAKES HIT WITH WOMEN

Not Sentiment but Appetite Inspires Ladies' Devotion to Presbyterian Caterers

MEN PLAN COOK AND SERVE

Women Dine in Luxury and May Plan to Perpetuate Relegation of Spouses to Kitchen

If stranger guests were shocked at the way diners at the six o'clock dinner at the First Presbyterian church last night flirted with the waiters, their consternation may be abated by the fact that the said waiters were the husbands of the said diners, nor would it be just to accept without investigation the insinuation that the good wives were not discriminating in the matter of whose husband each of them "jollied."

The tables were turned. The Men's League planned, prepared and served the banquet, and the women partook of it, discussed it, and perhaps "cussed" it.

Plates were laid for 125 people, and the appearance of approximately 185 hungry folk threw the kitchen into a panic, but a raid on the shops which netted a boiled ham and sundry accessories restored confidence and averted famine.

It is anticipated that there will appear in the "Classified pages" of the papers a "lost, strayed or stolen" "ad" seeking to account for the mysterious disappearance of a duly constituted Reception Committee. Private information is to the effect that when the coterie of men assigned to this delicate social task described the formidable army of femininity advancing, plumes waving, hats shimmering in the sun, they fell into a panic and fled precipitately to the kitchen.

When the doors were opened Rev. D. C. Jones announced the "rule of the sea." It was a severe test of chivalry, but the men faced their fate gamely, watching the "women and children first" order promptly executed, although it was apparent from the first that there was not enough bullion to go round. A few women hesitated, and were lost, and a few heroic ones refused to desert their husbands, preferring to share the fate of their better fractions. Survivors of the second table differ in their versions, the most serious charges against the management being failure to provide cream for the coffee.

Why They Came
C. W. Dow, who as head waiter, shocked the unconventionalities by appearing in evening dress, suggested in a Major Demo whisper that the unusual attendance of women was accounted for by the fact that this was one occasion upon which they knew where to find the men in the evening.

It was worth a doughnut at the second table to see Professor Engleman and his corps of waiters, duck capped and coated, dexterously keeping the soup out of the ladies' laps

No Chance for Harold

"Just think, boys," said the teacher who was trying to instill American history by inductive methods, "each one of you may sometime have a chance to be president of this great country. Think of the opportunity that no other little boys but Americans have. Now all of you who would like to be president some day, stand up."

Up rose all but one small boy in the front row, who bowed his head in despair on his desk.

"Why, Harold!" said teacher, "wouldn't you like to be president?"

"Y-yes ma'am," wept Harold, "but I'm a Democrat."

Tight Fittings

Somewhat mother had never quite cottoned to Angelina's young man. Many a time she had meant to have it out with him and at last an opportunity arose.

"Mr. Simpkins," she began impressively, "I am informed by an acquaintance that you are employed by a firm of pork butchers."

The young man looked pained and crestfallen, but quickly recovered his composure.

"Yes, that is so. But —" he faltered.

"And," went on the old lady trembling with indignation, "you led Angelina to believe that you were a costumer."

The detected swanker blushed again; but he was a quick-witted young man, and inspiration came to him.

"Well," he replied defiantly, "and so I am. You see, I put the tights on the sausages."

Prompt collapse of mother and mutual forgive-and-forget when the laughter subsided.

A Solution

One of the young men attached to the American embassy at Berlin tells a story to illustrate that modern advertising can cope with the etiquette of courts.

A young American woman wished to be presented at the court of the king of Saxony. The high officials, having inquired into her social standing at home, objected. They represented to her that the king could scarcely receive the daughter of a retail bookseller.

The young woman cabled home and told her father the situation. The next morning she received his answer:

"Can't call it selling. Practically giving them away. See advertisement."

That solved the difficulty. She was presented as the daughter of an eminent philanthropist.—Harper's Magazine.

A Lesson in Economy

Senator Dixon of Montana, according to the San Francisco Argonaut, says that he saved a soldier's walk to Fort Myer the other night, and, incidentally, learned a new lesson in economy.

"Very evidently the soldier had been celebrating pay day, for he was good-naturedly intoxicated as well as 'broke.' Not having his fare when the conductor called for it, I granted his request for the accommodating nickel. Then I asked him what he had done with his $16.50. He answered, frankly enough: 'Ten dollars went for a champagne supper with the boys—and I bought drinks with $5.' I asked him what he had done with the other $1.50. After a moment's thought he hesitatingly answered: 'Well, I guess I just spent it foolishly.'"

Just How He Felt

"This is the fourth address I have made today, gentlemen," began Dr. Emil G. Hirsch at the banquet given to Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, at the Germania club in Chicago recently.

"So I am brought to a remembrance of an experience of mine in the backwoods of Iowa not long ago. I was scheduled to speak at the town meeting place in the evening. Because of the scant railroad accommodations, it was necessary—unavoidable—that I arrive in the town early in the morning and linger there all day.

"The town was billed plentifully for my speech. I noticed that when I strolled about in the morning. A curious feature of the billing was that they had pasted one of my photographs on an advertising board of a drug store. The mouth of my picture came directly over the aperture of the board through which letters were to be dropped. Of course they had broken the paper where the aperture—and my mouth—was.

"And down below was the druggist's advertising slogan: 'This place never closes. Open day and night.'

"That's precisely the way I feel about myself today."—Chicago Tribune.

and engaging with the women in a side line of repartee their contributions to which were embarrassed smiles and accentuated awkwardness.

A New Humorist

In addition to having unveiled a new humorist in the community, N. M. Scott proved his versatility in a variety of helpful ways. He was "all things to all men" (and to all women). He hurled himself against the ramparts of domestic science, making the salad and hustling the "cats" to the hashbrowsers. He prodded the sergeant at arms and repeatedly frustrated a raid on the delayed repast by the militant female suffragists.

collaboration upon which J. E. Halverson denies) which greeted the ladies from the walls of the dining room.

"Votes for men."

"Don't be fussy, your husband is hot."

"What is home without man?"

"Please remove your hat pins."

"Nurses and doctors in attendance."

"All food guaranteed PURE by the Men's League."

"Remnant sale from 9 to 10."

Danger Is Feared

Above are some of the decorations, a line of humor to which an unconscious touch was added when the artist, in announcing that "Any recipe used for this dinner may be had on application to the Men's League," spelled it "recelt."

So highly did the ladies (patronizingly of course) compliment the gentlemen upon their gastronomic discrimination and culinary genius that today alarm is felt in the community lest there be added to the female suffrage bill an amendment to perpetuate the inverted social ratio which was the object of this successful experimentation.

MY NEIGHBOR AND I.

(By Mrs. A. E. Bleekman.)

My neighbor sits on her broad front porch:

She sits with averted face,

While I must needs on my daily tramp

To pass close by her place.

For many years my neighbor and I have dwelt in love and peace.

For many years each gave to each kind thoughts without surcease.

When sorrow came into her life

And bowed her head in pain,

Her pain became my anguish

Till it was gone again.

When sweet eyed joy came laughing by

And lingered to caress,

I flew to her rejoicing

With love and peace to bless.

Alas, one day a fiendish sprite

Came whispering in her ear,

He told her that a kindly word

Was only meant to tear.

Flung were the fruits of all the years,

Gone beyond control,

And the little world all horned and hoofed

Took housing in her soul.

My neighbor sits on her broad front porch:

She sits with averted eye,

While I must needs on my daily tramp

To closely pass her by.

Poverty and Riches. Luke vi. 20-26; xvi. 19-31.

Golden Text—A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth. Luke xii. 15.

(1.) Verse 20—Wherein consists the blessedness of poverty?

(2.) Did Jesus mean that it was blessed to be poor or in the fact that the poor were to be delivered from their poverty?

(3.) Why should the poor be more entitled to the kingdom of God than the rich?

(4.) Verse 21—When a good man is hungry or when he weeps, is he going through, for the time being, the best possible experience for him and is therefore blessed? Give your reasons.

(5.) If hunger is necessary in order to getting and enjoying food, and if weeping is an essential preparation for laughter, why are not these experiences blessed?

(6.) With the world and human nature constituted as at present, would it be a blessing or a curse, and why, if all hunger, weeping and other pain were impossible?

(7.) Verses 22-23—Wherein consists the blessedness of being hated for Jesus' sake?

(8.) Under painful circumstances, even when recognized as blessed, is it always possible to be joyful and happy? Why or why not?

(9.) If, for example, we are now suffering great pain, which is to result by and by in infinite pleasure, why would not a realization of the truth make our hearts glad?

(10.) Verse 24—What is the one great penalty of riches?

(12.) Verse 25—What is the great woe to those that, having plenty of food and worldly amusement, have no desire for spiritual joys?

(13.) Verse 26—Is it possible for a man who is well pleasing to God to have all men speak well of him?

(14.) XVI:19-23—How is it that in all time some have been very rich and some very poor?

(15.) Which, and why, tends most to goodness, great poverty or great riches?

(16.) Why did the poor man go to heaven and the rich man to hell?

(17.) Why is there no necessary vice or virtue in being either rich or poor?

(18.) Verses 24-26—What does this story teach concerning any alleviation of the suffering of the lost?

(19.) Verses 27-31—If Wesley and Knox were to come back to the earth and preach, would they win more people for Christ than they did when here before? Give your reasons.

BLOOMER GIRLS HERE TOMORROW

The Canadian National Bloomer Girls' baseball team comes here tomorrow to play the Outcasts in the first regular exhibition game of the year and an interesting game is looked for. The Canadian team's record for last year shows that they won 134 out of 162 games. If this can be taken as an idea of their strength they are capable of putting up a great battle against the best of teams. Manager Bond intends to put his strongest lineup in the field for this game and it is probable that the showing of the men tomorrow will have much to do with who will play on the regular team this year.

Chief Chase, Nally and Misch are showing up well as pitchers and Bond thinks that he has a great twirling staff in these heavers. Brown is doing the backstop work in fine style and from the present outlook he will take care of the receiving this season. Bond has not decided on his batteries as yet but it is likely that several of his pitchers will be given a chance to twirl part of the game.

The lineup: Meinert, cf.; With-row, lf.; Duchien, rf.; Van Horn, 1b.;
Mish, 2b.; Brown, c.; Weigent, ss.;
Horain, 3b.; Nally, Chase, Betzel, p.

ILLINOIS KICKER TO COACH THE HIGHS

Otto E. Seller, one of the University of Illinois' star athletes for the last four years, has been elected athletic director at the local high school next year to succeed Fred G. Carter, present athletic director, who has resigned to coach the local normal school athletes next year.

By virtue of his wonderful work on the gridiron and on the track team at Illinois, Seller has won recognition as one of the greatest athletes in the west and the high school considers itself fortunate in securing him for their athletic director as he should prove a great coach. For four years he played quarter back on the Illinois football teams and he was regarded as a wonderful field general in addition to being one of the best punters and drop kickers in the west as he scored many points for his eleven by means of the air line route.

He will undoubtedly be an ideal football coach and he should be able to develop the punting and drop kicking department here in great style.

Seller won great fame as a sprinter during his college career and he also appeared in the weight events.
He was also a good basketball player who knew the game thoroughly and he is well qualified to coach this branch of athletics also. He is well fitted for a director of athletics and the high school is looking forward to one of its best years when he assumes control of the teams next fall.

If You Were an Expert, What Car Would You Buy?

The time has passed when automobiles can be sold to you on their appearances or claims. This is a day when you and every purchaser must be shown what the car for which you pay your money will actually perform; what it will do. Beware of an automobile salesman who attempts to beguile you with a pleasing story. Tell him to show the goods and prove to you that his cars are worth the money. Find out whether his car is a real car or only an assembled automobile built to sell.

You have a right to your money's worth, but it is up to you to see that you get it. Deeper than all appearances, there are a few expert tests which ought to be applied to every car.

Who makes the car? Is it an assembled car or made from top to bottom by one manufacturer? What kind of a guarantee is on it? Does the manufacturer respect his own product with a real guarantee, or does he want you to take the chance?
What do parts cost you and how conveniently can you get them? How many cars of this make are in service and how many are giving satisfaction? Questions like these go deep into the heart of the case, and if you put them rigorously upon any car you will find out with a certainty whether or not that car is worth its price.

We are selling Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars because we know that, dollar for dollar, their equal is not sold in the market today. The records of many thousands of cars in all kinds of service have convinced us absolutely.
Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars are built to run, and because they run they sell. If we cannot prove to you under the most searching test that Studebaker cars are absolutely the best automobile values in the market, we do not want your business; but we can prove it, and your neighbors who drive these cars will tell you the same thing.

Be an expert when it comes to buying a car. You can, by getting from us some further ideas on real tests of an automobile. Clip the attached coupon and send it to us now because we have something new to tell you which you ought to know, whatever car you have in mind.

SWIMMERS NOT TO TRY FOR OLYMPIC

NEW YORK, May 4.—Although they are to be held for all other branches of sport in which the United States will compete at the Olympic games, it is unlikely, according to Manager Matt Halpin today, that the swimmers will be picked in that manner. Past performances will determine who will compose the water team.

MORRIS LICKED AGAIN

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 4.—It will be back to the engine for Carl Morris, the Oklahoma white hope.
Luther McCarthy, comparatively a novice, took Morris' measure in a six round bout last night. McCarthy repeatedly staggered Morris with hard rights, and in the sixth round dropped him with a right to the jaw.
The bout was stopped.

LAJOIE HURTS HIS BACK IN GAME

CHICAGO, May 4.—Napoleon La-joie strained his back while playing first in the practice just before the Nap-White Sox game yesterday afternoon. He did it reaching for a wide throw and walked, apparently in great pain to the club house. It is feared the injury is the same as kept him out of the game two months last season. He was attended by Trainer Doc White and was removed to the hotel. A physician was called.

HOPE HE GETS IT

NEW YORK, May 4.—We have with us today, Sid Burns, England's welterweight champion, who arrived on the Lusitania yesterday. Burns is itching for a fight with Mike Gilbons of St. Paul.

KLAUS AND DILLON PULL TAME BOUT

NEW YORK, May 4.—The scrap between Frank Klaus of Pittsburgh and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis was unmercifully panned by sporting writers today. Klaus was given the doubtful credit of winning the bout, but it was called the "tamest fight" in many months. Dillon as an excuse for a bad showing says he injured his left hand early in the evening and was unable to do his best.

COLLEGE CREWS OPEN

NEW YORK, May 4.—The college rowing season opens today with races scheduled on local waters between the Columbia varsity crew and the Nonpareil Rowing club and at Annapolis between the University of Pennsylvania and the naval academy.

ST. PAUL PITCHER REPORTS

signed for the Outcasts' stable this

Wine and Beer

Any variety of wine contains more alcohol than good beer.

Old Style Lager

is distinguishable from other beers by the intentionally low percentage of alcohol maintained in the brewing—fairly sparkling with the health-giving essence of hardy barley grain and the soothing tonic extraction of choicest hops. Old Style Lager, with its amber glow, is perfect,
pure, nourishing and wholesome.
